Eminence Council reports progress

BY BRAD BOWMAN
editor@hclocal.com

McDonald's franchise owner George Saliba gave an update to Eminence City Council members about the new McDonald's, which broke ground Monday on Main Street in Eminence.

The store will open from 5 a.m. to 11 p.m. during the week and 12 a.m. on Saturdays. Saliba said the store will hire a 55 to 60 person crew, which will include 10 managers. Some employees from the Pendleton store, Henry County residents, will move to the new location.

The new store will be the first of its kind ever built with accommodations and furnishings styled specifically to Eminence.

"The historical pictures of Eminence will be imbedded in the wallpaper," Saliba said. "People will be able to their kids the importance of the buildings. I want to people to stop by there and see the heritage of Eminence."

Saliba said in his presentation to the council that he wants to put Eminence on the map with the unique store. He has received phone calls from McDonald's home office who wants to train managers for other locations in the store.

"Every young man and woman that comes to work for me, I will think of them as my own son and daughter," Saliba said. "I want them to have a good first impression, a good first job when they come to us. Many will go to college and go on to be doctors and lawyers, and I want them to learn at McDonald's to be responsible, to be on time and how to smile, work with other people and be a team player."

Saliba will have a grand opening ceremony with a flag raising. Saliba said it is very important for him as

Farm Bill gives and takes away

BY BRAD BOWMAN
editor@hclocal.com

U.S. Rep. Thomas Massie (R-Vanceburg) celebrated with other Kentucky legislators the amendment for hemp production, which survived the passing of the Farm Bill in early February.

The amendment is a small victory toward making hemp farming a reality in Kentucky.

"The hemp amendment in the farm bill will allow industrial hemp to be grown as part of a state pilot program," Massie said. "The senate did not have a hemp amendment in their farm bill and when it went to the conference committee Sen. McConnell made sure it stayed in."

The bill will allow universities and the Department of Agriculture in states where hemp is legal to grow by state law, to research and grow test plots. The research will also allow for market research to support a hemp economy.

The small victory comes almost on the one-year anniversary that Massie introduced HB 525, the Industrial Hemp Farming Act in 2013, which would allow farmers to grow industrial hemp.

Massie said he knew he had support of 49 other members for the amendment while HB 525 has sat referred to the subcommittee on Crime, Terrorism, Homeland Security, and Investigations since Mar. 15, 2013.

State Sen. Paul Hornback, who has been a supporter of hemp production, said it is still a long way off.

"We have processors from outside the country who are interested now," Hornback said. "We have to wait on the federal government to write the regulations and you know how long it takes for anything to happen in Washington. We could be waiting a few months to a couple of years."

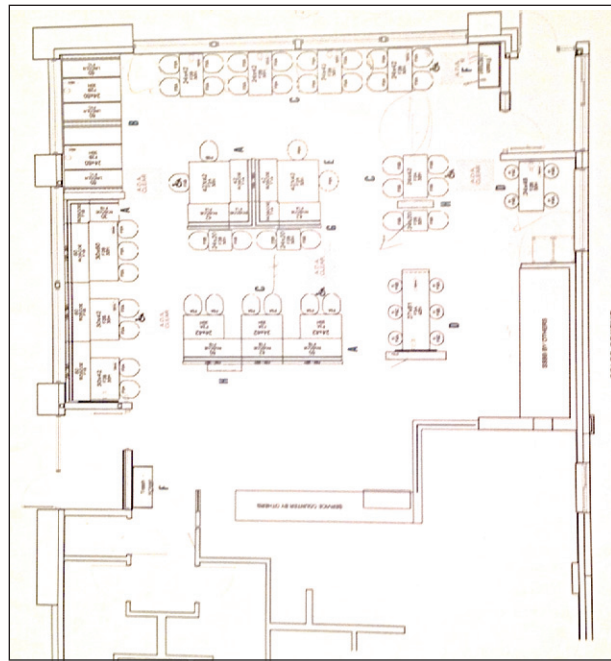

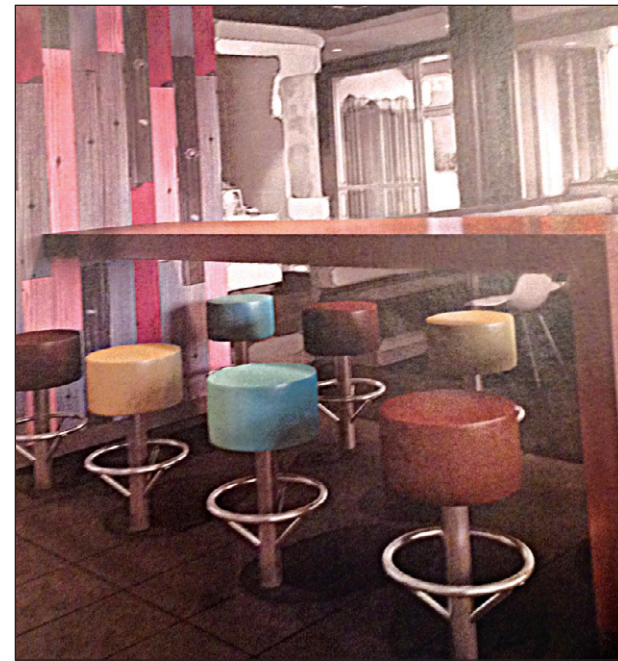

Hornback said that the Canadian hemp market has shown growth over the last year with promise.

Henry County Black History: The Fisher Family

BY BRAD BOWMAN
editor@hclocal.com

One of the oldest African-American families in Henry County, the Fisher family, came to Eminence and started farming, but family values sowed a tradition of service.

Robert Fisher, a veteran who served in the colored infantry, is the patriarch of the Eminence lineage. Fisher grew up in Alabama, not as a slave, but recorded on the 1850 Census as a free inhabitant. He came to Shelby County in 1910 and married America Booker. They settled in Eminence to farm with family in 1920. Robert and America Fisher had 13 children: Carrie, George, Frances, Robert Jr., Lula, Emma, John, Herman, Joe, Willie, Cassie, Martha and Charlie.

Magaret Daniels, the family historian, started her research only to find out some of what they were told as children wasn't exactly true.

"I tell people to be careful the truth always comes out," Daniels said. "Robert Fisher lied about his age to get in the infantry. The census said he was 10 in 1850 so he lied about his age to enroll. Every time I looked I found a new piece of information that contradicted some of the stories we were told as children."

Quilt show: An artistic expression

BY BRAD BOWMAN
editor@hclocal.com

Donna Duncan travels around from schools to community events showing off quilts more like works of art than the traditional quilts your grandmother made.

In the A New Box of Crayons Trunk Show, Duncan presents and displays 31 quilts inspired by the new box of crayons theme.

The outgoing 2011-2012 president of the Kentucky Heritage Quilt Society, Claire Hundley issued the theme challenge to participating quilters. The submissions had to be inspired by the excitement of a new box of crayons and the joy of possibilities contained in each box. The quilt entries had to contain three shapes and the eight crayon colors: green, blue, yellow, orange, red, purple, brown and black.

The quilts cover an artistic spectrum from an elementary student's art to the abstract of pattern and color play.

Duncan will display the quilts at two more local events in Henry County: The New Castle United Methodist Church, 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 13 and noon, Feb. 19, at Campbellsburg Baptist Church.

Terry Heffley, a member of the Women's Group, has seen different quilts over the years and invites every one to see them in New Castle. According to Heffley, the quilts' artistic expressions kept the attention of her former students.

"I'm a retired teacher and you wouldn't think children would be interested," Heffley said. "There is a story with each one of the quilts and they are not typical — they are more like wall hangings."

Duncan would incorporate the mathematical knowledge of quilt making and their themed patterns to the core content students were learning at the time, Heffley said.

Duncan shows the quilts across the state. She's been involved with the Kentucky Heritage Quilt Society since 1986, served as a past president, a board member for 19 years and editor of the newsletter.

The quilts show off not just the craftsmanship of a quilter, some are hand sewn and some machined, but also the imaginations and artistic expression of their creators.

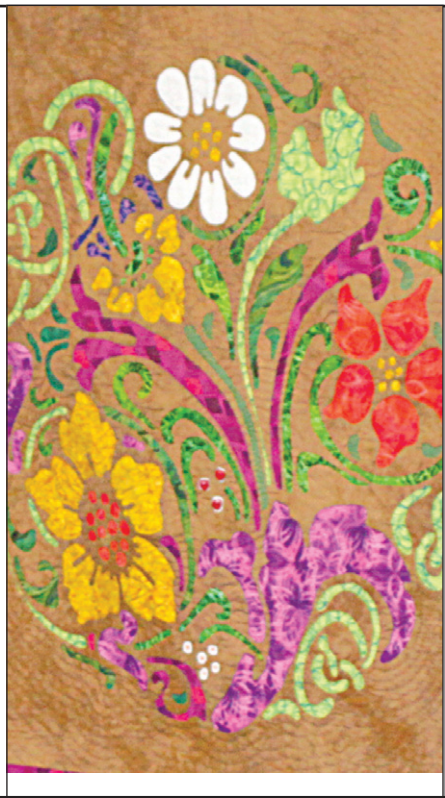

"I thought quilting was a part of my heritage," Duncan said. "Quilts have evolved over the last 30 years into more of a painterly approach in their making. Thread painting is used to apply color instead of using fabric. The techniques are different and the quilts are just as much a form of art as sculpting and painting."

Duncan started showing the quilts in 1993. The events have grown from schools to community and adult groups across the state.

"I teach students museum etiquette: wearing white gloves so as to not soil the fabric with the oils from my hands, who the artist is and why they made the quilt, and also, how it made them feel or inspired them. It's an opportunity to show that art is more than what we traditionally think of."

Quilters in the show hail from Union, Lawrenceburg,

Eminence, Crestwood and Shelbyville to outside the state from Indiana and Ohio.

One of 10 selected for the WFPK and Whole Foods Market sponsored Power of Music Project.

How did you get interested in writing and performing music?

It started when I was four and I did ballet. We moved to Florida and when I was eight, I was accepted into a private ballet academy. We worked on academics half of the day and the other half of the day we did nothing, but dance. We were taught how to dance and perform like professional ballerinas. My love for performing started there and when we moved back to Louisville I auditioned for roles in musical theater. Being homeschooled and through our church, I had a lot of influences — people close to me who were musicians. When I was about nine or 10, I decided I was going to be a musician. I started writing songs and attempted to play the piano and I haven’t stopped since. I took piano lessons from Rebecca Elliott, my older sister’s best friend, who is a wonderful musician and Melissa Neutz for accompaniment to my voice. I took those both for six months. I am self-taught.

Jamie Barnes and Brooks Ritter, local musicians, have also been great mentors. She (Elliott) had a great knack for writing music with great rhyme schemes and I wanted to do it. I decided I was going to write my own worship song, I think I was 10, and I wrote “I Want to be a Follower of You.”

I dance around on the keys, figure out a melody. I’ll find the chords and find a progression I like and then I’ll start adding lyrics. Sometimes I have specific inspirations. The sunset or how I see nature in a certain way, something hits me and I write about it.

What is the Power of Music Project and how did you get accepted?

A week before the deadline a friend of ours posted on my Facebook page the link where they were accepting applications for singer/songwriters between the ages of 13 to 17 for the Power of Music Project. We had to submit a song. Within the next four days I submitted a song and my brother, Shaughn Tillman filmed me in a video doing the song “You and You Alone,” — an original I wrote. The link to the video here: www.bit.ly/1dfa3ZX.

It’s a six-month program that started in December. We meet once a month to do all-day workshops and we have actual homework assignments. We work at the WFPK studio. They bring in local artists who come in and play a couple of songs, talk about their writing processes and talk about how they got started.

One of the assignments was to take three things I wanted to change in this world. A lot of it is take inspiration from this general subject or topic and write a song about it. During the workshop we go over the songs.

Musicians kRi (how the artist spells their name) and Hettie, they do their own music, work with us in the workshops.

We’ve had Jim James (vocalist, writer of My Morning Jacket) and Houndmouth, that I really liked, come in and tell us how they got started and what they do.

The power of music project will teach us about marketing, logo design, album design and even stuff like how to eat right on the road.

One of the sponsors is Whole Foods so they cater and bring in vegan meals for us to eat and teach us about nutrition.

There are 10 students and most of them are really young. I think I am the only other person who is 16. The actual styles vary from country singers to people it would be hard to put into a specific genre. They teach us about finding our own specific voice.

In addition to the workshops, we also do community service projects to pay off the time we spend in the studio. We helped a Kenyan refugee family move into an apartment.

At the end of the program, we will do a big performance at the venue (Headliners) across the street from WFPK.

What are the take-aways you get from the program?

One of the things I want to get from it is hopefully connections.

The program is forcing me to write way more songs than I am used to writing. The ratio of song writing, by the time we are done, will be somewhere around 100 songs I think. If you write 100 songs, 40 will be okay songs and three will be great songs.

I wrote a song after helping the Kenyan refugee family move into their apartment. Our assignment was to take inspiration from it.

I researched old tribal melodies, played guitars, congas and a rain stick. I have never attempted to play those things before. I started plucking something simple on the guitar and looped it. Then I did backing vocals before the melody. That was the main thing I took from the tribal melodies. I wanted a distinct sound and I looked around the room for weird sounds I could use. I tried using an ornament, but I used a glass bottle. I put that all together and I didn’t know what my melody was. I had the lyrics and kept playing it over and over until I had the melody.

I wrote the song in French. “Salette Plus” video link here: www.bit.ly/1kxSvVZ.

I feel like I’ve learned a lot from actual musicians who are actually doing it in their own life.

So what ultimately is your goal?

I’ve been thinking about that a lot lately. I don’t want to be super famous. I don’t want to be a pop star. I think I want to be like Norah Jones. My friends don’t listen to her or know that music, but she is famous. I want to be semi-famous in the genre I sing.

I don’t care if I am famous or not. I just want to live the life of a musician where I tour, sing and can write my own music.

I want to study music, musical theater and writing. My family is really supportive of what I do — they are all artists in their own right.

I have looked into Berea College, but you have to be really talented to get in there. I don’t want to go somewhere big, it would be too overwhelming and I am considering Centre College too.

Have a funny story?

I act in the Minions of Mischief — the student acting guild at the Kentucky Renaissance Fair in Eminence and do the Dickens show at Christmas. One of my teachers Whitney Christiansen turned me on to the Renaissance. I play in the Dickens show as the Ghost of Christmas Past, Martha Cratchit and the turkey. I wear, head to toe, the turkey suit. I get my wings flapping and I do the perfect gobble.

At the very end when Scrooge is happy again, he tells the boy to get the biggest turkey in the window. The kid runs up and gets me. I am the turkey. It’s really funny.

They (Renaissance actors) said they had this costume and Ms. Christiansen taught me how to gobble. It’s pretty funny because you can only look down in the costume and I don’t know — can’t see the patrons’ faces that I get in. I can only see my face. I have no idea whose face I am getting into.

an immigrant to have the flag raising, as well as, working with the community.

“It is important for me to work with the community. You have a good school, you have a good fire department and a good police department,” Saliba said. “I think that is a good foundation for every city and potential for growth. I would love to be able to go to the school and tell my story and tell children this is the land of opportunity, that I came here not speaking a word of English. That you can accomplish things and fulfill your dreams.”

Taking in to consideration the unpredictable weather conditions, Saliba hopes to open the Eminence McDonald’s by May 10.

Mayor Drane Stephens reported in his mayor’s update another new development: The Eminence Apothecary, a pharmacy he will run once construction and remodeling is finished.

The renovations at the old Mexican restaurant on Main Street will include two drive-through windows. The services will include flu shot clinics and diabetes care custom-tailored to individual patient needs.

“It will be at the old Joe Rucker alcohol place. I will be running that. I’m very excited about it. It’s a great, new opportunity for me,” Stephens said. “I’m glad to be back in Eminence everyday, all day. We will focus on small town atmosphere and service.

There is enough business here for CVS and us.”

The new pharmacy will also offer prescription delivery, will accept Medicaid and all forms of insurance with an anticipated opening date of April 1, according to Stephens.

“We will stone-up the front. We may not have all of it finished because of weather,” Stephens said. “I knew when I left the independent pharmacy at Cook’s, it didn’t take me long to realize, I didn’t do the right thing. I always said when the right opportunity came to Eminence I would take it.”

The Local: Building on standard of excellence

You are reading an excellent newspaper. Each year, the Kentucky Press Association (KPA) hosts a statewide contest, Excellence in Newspapers, that honors reporters, editors, photographers and graphic designers in several categories. Newspapers are grouped by size into different divisions, then each entry is judged by out-of-state professionals who name the winners. In our division, the Henry County Local won third place overall in General Excellence, thanks to the individual awards earned by the editorial staff.

Melissa blankenship

News editor Brad Bowman racked up quite a few awards, including: first place, best news story; first place, best feature story; second place, best enterprise/analytical story; second place, best on-going/extended coverage story; and third place, best on-going/extended coverage story. Sports editor Greg Woods earned a first place in best sports column and a first place in best sports feature, along with an honorable mention in best sports story. Former editor Jonna Spelbring-Priester won first place in best editorial, third place for best column and a second place for best graphic (the contest entry deadline was prior to her resignation). The combined effort of the editorial staff led to the third place General Excellence award. This is significant because the

Local was competing against like-size papers throughout the state of Kentucky and made top three. In the past, we've won this designation, several times over, in fact. And it's not easy to get. We wanted you, our readers, to know that we focus on providing you with quality content each and every week. And while it's incredibly satisfying to be recognized by the pre-eminent press organization in the state for our work, what our readers think about the Henry County Local is more important to us. We have made a couple of changes over the past month (like moving this page to A5 instead of A2), and we will likely make a few more changes over the course of the next several months. We value your opinion and feedback because we always want to improve upon our product for the people who matter most – our readers. Please feel free to email, call or send a note to us to give us feedback on specific articles or give us ideas for stories. What do you like most about the Local? What kind of articles would you like to see more? In what ways can we improve upon our already excellent product? We will continue to bring you quality content in a timely manner. We will continually strive to improve. We will always remember that it is our community that we serve, first and foremost. And hopefully next year, you'll read about our First Place General Excellence award. Please respond with feedback, suggestions or ideas to: Henry County Local, 18 South Penn Avenue, Eminence, KY 40019; or call (502) 845-2858; or email Melissa at publisher@hclocal.com.

Naming fathers of political parties can be tricky

Gather 'round, folks, it's time for birthday trivia! Who said, "Labor is prior to and independent of capital...capital is only the fruit of labor, and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital, and deserves much the higher consideration,"? Karl Marx, you say? Nope. Lenin? Wrong again. Try our birthday boy, Abraham Lincoln, in his first state of the union address. Lincoln Day is the annual celebration for many local Republican Party organizations. The party faithful gather for a meal and promote the party—the Democrats have their counterpart, Jefferson-Jackson Day. Since the death of Ronald Reagan, the GOP event has become known as the Lincoln-Reagan Dinner. It is baffling that modern day

"The Average Joe"

Republicans still gather under the banner of Lincoln, who would today—without question—be a Democrat. But to speak the name of the sainted Abraham Lincoln in the same breath of air as the B-movie actor Ronald Reagan is particularly offensive to any truly patriotic American. Our 16th President a Democrat? Blasphemy!! No way! Well, let's start by opening a history book, where we find that, as a young man, Lincoln was a member of the Whig party. He became a Republican in the 1850's as the Whigs faded and the Republican Party was born. Lincoln supported Whig economic policies, "particularly its support for government aid to internal improvements [as they] seemed to him to hold out hope for the economic development of the West." Is it just me, or does that sound like one of today's dadgum tax and spend liberals? But didn't Lincoln exemplify the limited, hands-off approach to government to which today's Republicans give lip service? Think again. In 1854, he said: "The legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all, or cannot so well do, for themselves in their separate and individual capacities." Doesn't sound too dang libertarian to me. How 'bout you, Grover? Lincoln made this Nostradamus-like statement a few days after his reelection in 1864: "I see in the near future a crisis approaching that... causes me to tremble for the safety of my country... Corporations have been enthroned ...and the money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people, until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands and the Republic is destroyed." But to disparage the beloved Ronald Reagan, whose likeness should be on Mt. Rushmore? Is there no shame? When one looks beyond the fable, it's a wonder why Reagan is a hero to the conservative movement at all. He raised taxes many times. Well, he actually cut taxes for rich folks, but for the rest of us, not so much.

He negotiated with terrorists while Ollie North was selling arms to the Iranians from the basement of the White House. The size of government exploded. The biggie? The deficit. Don't give me that "it was a Democratic Congress" baloney. In the eight years of the Reagan presidency, Congress passed budgets totaling $4.7 billion lower than the budgets Reagan requested. Reagan as a fiscal conservative and an enemy of big government? Nope. But don't take my word for it. Ask former Vice-President Cheney, who once famously hissed through his Darth Vader mask: "Reagan proved deficits don't matter." But didn't Reagan protect our "Second Amendment remedies?" Not exactly. He signed legislation while governor of California prohibiting the public carrying of firearms. He later vigorously supported the Brady Bill. Reagan was a Democrat until 1962—right about the time Democrats began to openly support civil rights. In the most cynical act of his political career, he kicked off his 1980 presidential campaign by giving a "states rights" speech in Philadelphia, Mississippi, where sixteen years earlier three young men—who were helping blacks register to vote—had been brutally murdered by Klan rednecks. And we haven't even gotten to "trickle-down," Lebanon, immigration or union-busting. Implying that your political ideology is an extension of the values of Abraham Lincoln is a misdemeanor. Elevating Ronald Reagan to sainthood is a felony. May I suggest "Coolidge-Hoover" Day?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Youths explain synthetic marijuana

Some of you may be wondering what synthetic marijuana is. Synthetic marijuana is a psychoactive herbal and chemical product that mimics the effect of cannabis. People started using K2 or Spice instead of marijuana in the early 2000's. Spice uses HU-210 (similar to THC) and other synthetic cannabinoids and a mix of legal herbs. Where do you get it? Synthetic marijuana is sold online, in head shops and gas stations at about double the cost of marijuana. K2 and spice both largely became "generalized trademarks" to any synthetic marijuana products, but the drug goes by several names and in different types of packaging. What is actually in synthetic marijuana? Synthetic marijuana is a designer drug in which herbs, incense or other leafy materials are sprayed with lab-synthesized liquid chemicals to mimic the effect of tetrahydrocannabinol (THC), the psychoactive ingredient in the naturally grown marijuana plant (cannabis sativa). When buying spice, you never know what is really put in it and that is a huge risk. What does synthetic marijuana look like? Synthetic marijuana is a mixture of dried leaves from traditional herbal plants. They are various colors including green, brown, blonde and red. They are sold in small packets approximately 2 by 3 inches. The packets are foil packs or plastic zip bags. What are the risks of synthetic marijuana? Risks of synthetic marijuana include: increased agitation, vomiting, psychosis, heart attacks, convulsions, seizures, hallucinations, paranoid behavior, nausea, racing heartbeat and elevated blood pressure. Three teens in Texas showed up at a Dallas emergency room with heart attack symptoms. A mother of two from Indiana even died after using a "bad batch" of K2 and the number of calls to US Poison Control Centers about synthetic cannabis has doubled in the last year. Legislators have made several attempts to ban the drug, making it illegal for sale, however, it is still available and relatively easy to get. Synthetic marijuana is not safe. It is unregulated and unpredictable when it comes to reactions. Please talk to your children about the dangers of synthetic marijuana and report any suspicions of people using or selling K2 or Spice in our community. It is dangerous and we don't want it here. — Submitted by Youth Coalition, a group of Eminence and Henry County High School students that advocate healthy, substance-free lifestyles to their peers

Eminence,” Daniels said. “She was one of the 13 kids from Robert and America Fisher. She gave a contractor her money, money she saved her entire life, to help others and the contractor ran off with it.” Daniels graduated from Eminence High School in 1972 and graduated from Kentucky State University with two degrees: sociology and criminal justice. Daniels has a masters degree in personnel administration and law and retired from the Kentucky Personnel

Cabinet as the principal assistant. She has traveled to Africa several times as a missionary and only after researching her family history did she see the connection. “I decided we needed to do the DNA swab to genetically trace our place of origin,” Daniels said. “We used Emma Fisher, the closest relative to Robert living. I’ve been a missionary since 2002 and found out the reason why I felt so at home at some of the places I visited there.” The DNA test traced the Fishers’ lineage to a region of west Africa with migrating points to Sudan, Chad, Cameroon, Morocco, the Canary , Ethiopia and included the Arabia Peninsula. “Our ancestors were traveling and teaching other people about farming in Africa,” Daniels said. “The DNA test showed you what group you are connected to and the role they played in these different countries. Everyone should do the test with their oldest male relative if they can.” Daniels said she didn’t realize the lineage of service until a family reunion where she learned about the numerous missionaries and ministers in the Fisher family. Knowing family history should be passed on to the younger generations,

Daniels said. “Young people don’t have a clue. They grew up in an entirely different time,” Daniels said. “I want to give them some accurate information so they can understand their connection to family, show them the different things where they have to step outside their comfort zone. We have twins in the family that do mission work. One of my dreams is to do what Cassie Fisher wanted to and start a home for people. I think about it all the time. Service and helping other people is just one of those things that has ingrained in us.”

“In 2012, they grew 75,000 acres of hemp in Canada. In 2013, they grew 150,000 acres of hemp,” Hornback said. “BMW uses the oils and fiber in hemp for their dashboards. We know Ford and Toyota would be interested in it.” The Farm Bill will take away the direct payments to farmers who received funds whether they actually farm their land or not, but will place $7 billion in crop insurance relief for farmers over the next decade. The new bill will cut $8 billion in food stamp funding over the next decade, decreasing benefits by about $90 per household, but Massie said will save taxpayer money with new requirements for assistance. “We will save $ 8 million a year by changing the requirements,”

Massie said. “Before, states could automatically qualify someone for food stamps if someone received $1 in heating assistance they automatically qualified for food stamp assistance. Now, the state will have provide $20 of heating assistance for individuals to qualify for food stamps. By implementing the threshold, the state cannot automatically engage in the loophole. It will save an estimated $16 billion over the next decade.”

In the beginning, there came debate

"Bill Nye the Science Guy" and Ken Ham of the Creation Museum faced off this past week to debate creationism vs. evolution. I am so tired of this debate. It is not new. It was going on when I was a kid and when my parents were kids and when their parents were kids, and probably when Noah was a kid. Enough already! This love/hate relationship that many Christians have with science baffles me.

We embrace science on so many levels. I'm writing on a laptop computer that amazes my simple brain. Some of you may be reading this on a computer or some other electronic device—perhaps your phone. My grandparents weren't even sure you could talk on a telephone, and you and I carry on business with our phones. We can watch the Olympics live from halfway around the world. With lasers, doctors are now performing surgeries that were unheard of and impossible just a few years ago. Children are living today who, just a few years ago, would never have survived birth. Science made all of this possible.

MICHAEL Duncan
Pastor, Eminence Baptist Church

But when it comes to understanding the beginnings of the universe and our existence as human beings, we don't want to listen to science. If science speaks truth on one level and we benefit from it, shouldn't we at least listen to what it has to say about beginnings?

God gave us brains and surely expects us to use them. Finding out the how of our origins and the origins of other things is not a threat to belief and faith in a living Creator God. I am anxious to know what else science can tell us — about anything and everything. But I already know what science can neither prove nor disprove: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" (Genesis 1:1, KJV). I know this through faith manifested in my walk with Jesus. Oh, I know something else which science can neither prove nor disprove: A "new heaven and new earth is being created," and "behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God" (Revelation 22:1, 3 KJV). It's enough! This is a faith which science, no matter what it reveals, cannot shake. Science doesn't scare me or threaten my faith. Science has made and is making my life better.

Bill Nye and Ken Ham needed a third spokesperson in their debate. They needed to hear from a Christian believer who affirms the truth of scripture and the validity of science. Someone needed to remind them, and the audience, that Genesis 1-2 affirms that God is the creator and that science is helping us understand the true holy connectedness of creation. That's one point about which Pat Robertson of the 700 Club and I agree. (Check out Robertson's statement on YouTube: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MWAbr-SoMAs>.)

Why do we spend so much time focused on science vs. religion? Is it because it is easier to affirm Genesis 1 & 2 as literally true than to embrace the hard teachings of Jesus as we find them in the Sermon on the Mount? Perhaps we think if we make enough noise we will divert attention from the hard sayings of Jesus. It won't work. We are not Christians because we believe and embrace creationism as the only truth of our origins. We are Christian only to the extent we follow the Christ.

I refuse to be sidetracked by this ongoing debate. Instead, I urge science to tell me as much as it can; and whether the scientists believe or not when science tells me all it knows, I will add what I know: Behind all that science can ever know and reveal is God—the Great I AM. Faith and Science need not be enemies. To those with discerning and open minds and hearts, they work together to reveal the marvels of a living, creative God.

The weather continues trumping all

I'm not sure what records this winter will set, but it is hard to remember a longer, colder time. Even in the face of a lingering winter season, livestock producers can actually utilize the cold and damp to improve pasture and hay fields. That's right, our forage fields can be improved with the addition of red or white clover, and the freezing and thawing action of the soil in mid to late winter can be the perfect mechanism to establish a good seed to soil contact.

We usually call the process of adding a legume to an existing grass pasture or hay field 'renovation.' And when we utilize the freezing and thawing action of the soil to plant the seed, we call it 'frost seeding.' Red and white clover seeds are perfectly shaped to fall down into the ground cover and are hardy enough to survive the cold. And the results of this renovation are beneficial for at least three reasons: increased yield, improved forage quality and the addition of 'free' nitrogen. Pasture renovation by frost seeding is then a highly successful, low input method of improving the forage base. Check with us at the Extension Office (845-2811) for the 2013 variety tests for red and white clover.

TOBACCO BUYOUT PAYMENT UPDATE

Dr. Will Snell, UK Economist, just passed along information that the USDA Tobacco Buyout check for 2014 should come by February 15. This is the last year of the 10- year buyout schedule, but since a small part of this payment was kept back because of the recent sequester, congressional action has added it back. This last amount may be as late as October, but it will come.

Extension celebrates 100 years of health and nutrition education

Times may change, but for the past 100 years families in Kentucky have looked to Cooperative Extension Service to learn better ways to be healthy. Starting in 1914, home demonstration agents brought the latest research to farm kitchens or outdoor canning clubs, showing new ways to preserve garden produce to prevent foodborne illness. During World War II, growing good food and using nutrition to keep soldiers and the home front healthy was a patriotic priority for both home demonstration agents and the families they served.

Today, families continue to turn to the Cooperative Extension Service as they want to know even more about food and nutrition to feel good, look good and enjoy a long healthy life. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's research-based ChooseMyPlate food plans are a great way to get started, especially if you are interested in weight loss. USDA's ChooseMyPlate tools (found at <http://www.choosemyplate.gov>) help you plan and personalize what you put on your plate, bowl or glass to get what your body needs to feel great.

Practicing good nutrition simply means that you are eating foods that contain the nutrients that your body needs in the amounts necessary for great health. Protein builds muscles; carbohydrates and fats kick in energy; vitamins and minerals regulate body functions; and water nourishes everything. Each of these is found in different food groups such as fruits, vegetables, grains, dairy, protein and oils.

As you explore the ChooseMyPlate food group lists, you'll find different foods in each group that you can try to make meals more interesting. Create your personal profile and check out ways to help manage body weight such as:

- The BMI Calculator identifies if you are at a healthy weight, underweight, overweight or obese.
- The SuperTracker an online tool that helps you track what you currently eat and drink, gives you a personalized plan, and guides you to make better choices. Just start with a personal profile.

•The Daily Food Plan shows you the types and amounts of food to eat within your calorie allowance. The plan is personalized for you, based on your age, gender, height, weight and physical activity level. Specialized plans are available for women who are pregnant or breastfeeding and for young children.

Help enrolling in new health care program

Between Oct. 1, 2013 and March 31, 2014, Americans who have no health insurance will be able to enroll in private health coverage or qualify for coverage under expanded Medicaid eligibility. Many families may also qualify for new Health Insurance Premium Tax Credits, which may help make private health insurance affordable for low and moderate-income families and individuals.

The opportunity to obtain affordable health insurance coverage is unique for many uninsured people who may never have had an insurance plan. Consumers who are eligible for tax credits can choose to take an advance federal tax credit subsidizing a portion of the insurance premium each month, paid directly to the insurance company by the Department of Treasury or wait and claim the tax credit at the end of the year. Because health coverage is expensive, most people will likely choose to take the advance payments.

The applications for coverage are being handled by the new "health insurance market places" also called "exchanges." The same application forms will be used for Medicaid, the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) and premium credits to sort out what program a family qualifies for. The application can be completed on-line or by telephone as well as on paper.

If you are still confused by all of this then there is a special "Enrollment and Education Event" where you can learn more about getting affordable health care through the KIPDA Kynector Program. The event is being held at the Shelby County Extension Office located at 1117 Frankfort Road in Shelbyville from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday, February 13. They will be able to provide unbiased, cost-free help to you in completing the application and enrollment processes.

For more information call Mona Huff at 845-6849 or KIPDA at 266-5571 and ask for KYnect staff.

4-H Volunteer Forum gives an opportunity for youth to learn and lead

The 4-H Volunteer Forum this past week in Lexington had over 800 people across the state in attendance. Henry County was well represented with 19 volunteers and youth attending the conference. In addition to the conference attendees, there were six members of the Henry County 4-H Means Business Club present selling items in the exhibit hall.

The Volunteer Forum is designed to honor our volunteers for their hard work and dedication to the 4-H Program. During the day there are workshops and seminars designed with volunteers in mind. They can receive additional insight into how they can incorporate new ideas in their clubs or learn a new skill they can pass on.

On Friday evening there was a banquet honoring many of our outstanding volunteers. This year Dennis Campbell was chosen as the recipient of the Outstanding Shooting Sports Volunteer Award. Dennis has worked with the Henry County Shooting Sports program for the last 10 years and with the help of many other outstanding volunteers has made it into one of the best in the state. Dennis serves on the State 4-H Shooting Sports Committee and has received his national certification from the NRA. A big congratulation to Dennis for all you do for those involved in the shooting sports program.

Jordan Campbell was also recognized for his 10 years of service to the 4-H program. Jordan began his 4-H career in the shooting sports program and later became involved in many leadership opportunities. He served on the 4-H State Teen Council for three years and he also became a certified teen leader in the shooting sports program. Jordan has donated many hours to the 4-H program. He is now competing on the University of Kentucky Shotgun team and continues to volunteer in the 4-H Shooting Sports program.

The forum not only gave our volunteer leaders a chance to learn from other leaders across the state it also gave our 4-H Means Business Club an opportunity to showcase some of our talented local youth. This club is for middle school and high school aged youth. The objective of the club is to allow youth to become young entrepreneurs. They build their business from the ground up and learn a lot about what kind of commitment it takes to have your own business. Those attending the conference were: Emily Bratton with her fashion accessories, Kendyll and Kellyn Smith with their handmade knitted and crocheted items, Ethan Dockter with his woodworking crafts, Camryn McManis with her note cards featuring pictures she took of Henry County and Sarah Mobley with her primitive decorative accessories. The business owners did a great job of promoting their items and representing our county in a positive manner. They were also asked to take part in filming a national 4-H video that is currently in the works.

SUBMITTED

Dennis Campbell was recognized as an Outstanding Volunteer Shooting Sports Leader at the KY Volunteer Leaders Forum. Pictured with Dennis is his wife Jeanie, who also is a shooting sports volunteer leader, and his son Jordan, who was recognized as a 10-year 4-H Member.

SUMMARY OF ORDINANCE
At a meeting held on February 3, 2014, the governing body of the City of New Castle, Kentucky, adopted the following ordinance:

AN ORDINANCE APPROVING A LEASE FOR THE FINANCING OF A PROJECT; PROVIDING FOR THE PAYMENT AND SECURITY OF THE LEASE; CREATING A SINKING FUND; AND AUTHORIZING THE EXECUTION OF VARIOUS DOCUMENTS RELATED TO SUCH LEASE

It is hereby certified that the foregoing ordinance provides for approval of a lease with Kentucky Bond Corporation for financing certain public improvements and provides a general obligation pledge to assess sufficient taxes to comply with the obligations to pay lease payments. The full text of the section relating to the pledge to levy and assess a tax to pay the lease obligation is:

Section 2. General Obligation Pledge. Pursuant to the Constitution of the Commonwealth and Chapter 66 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, as amended (the "General Obligation Statutes"), the obligation of the Lessee created by the Lease shall be a full general obligation of the Lessee and, for the prompt payment of the Lease Payments, the full faith, credit and revenue of the Lessee are hereby pledged. During the period the Lease is outstanding, there shall be and there hereby is levied on all the taxable property in the Lessee, in addition to all other taxes, without limitation as to rate, a direct tax annually in an amount sufficient to pay the Lease Payments on the Lease when and as due, it being hereby found and determined that current tax rates are within all applicable limitations. Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, levied and extended upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers in the same manner and at the same time that taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof; provided, however, that in each year to the extent that the other taxes of the Lessee are available for the payment of the Lease Payments and are appropriated for such purpose, the amount of such direct tax upon all of the taxable property in the Lessee shall be reduced by the amount of such other taxes so available and appropriated.

There is hereby established, or it is acknowledged that there has heretofore been established, with the Lessee a sinking fund (the "Sinking Fund"). The funds derived from said tax levy hereby required or other available taxes shall be placed in the Sinking Fund and, together with interest collected on the same, are irrevocably pledged for the payment of all bonds or obligations issued under the General Obligation Statutes and all Tax Supported Leases, as defined in General Obligation Statutes, including the Lease herein authorized, when and as the same fall due. Amounts shall be transferred from the Sinking Fund to the Lessor at the times and in the amounts required by the Lease.

A complete copy of the ordinance may be reviewed at the office of the City of New Castle, Kentucky.

Two local athletes sign letters of intent

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

Two local high school football players signed letters of intent last week to play college football. Corey Roberts of Eminence High School and Billy Collier of Henry County High School signed their letters at ceremonies held at their respective schools. Roberts, who played offensive line, linebacker and defensive end in his four-year career at Eminence, signed with Campbellsville University in the school library on Thursday evening while family, friends, coaches and administrators looked on. "I'm really excited about this," Roberts said. "I've wanted to play in college since I was little. It's like a dream come true." When asked why he chose Campbellsville, Roberts said, "I considered Eastern Kentucky and Thomas More but I decided on Campbellsville because it's a good Christian school." Roberts thinks he will play either as a linebacker or defensive end in college. "I feel prepared for the step up," Roberts said. "Coach Frommeyer and the staff have prepared me well to go to the next level." Roberts was a four-year starter for the Warriors and made the All-District and All-conference teams for three years. Coach Steve Frommeyer thinks he deserves a shot at the college level. "He's worked as hard as anybody in the program for a long time," Frommeyer said. "He worked to make himself better. He deserves it if anybody does. He'll keep that work ethic in college and beyond." Frommeyer is pleased not only for Roberts but also for what it means to his program. "It's really great for our program when our guys go to college because it is an incentive for our younger kids when they see that it is possible," Frommeyer said. "Corey was that team player that would do whatever the coaches asked and when the kids see a player like that it's a great role model for them to follow." Collier, who signed in his school's library on Friday afternoon, was an offensive lineman for the Wildcats who also earned first-team All-District honors. He was also selected to play in the East-West All-Star game. Collier signed with Union College and feels the school is a good fit for him. "I feel great about my decision," Collier said. "It was always a dream of mine to play college ball and now I'm going to do it. Union was my main offer. They were paying me the most money for school so it was an easy decision." But money wasn't the only consideration. "It's a really nice program," he said. "The main attraction was the weight-lifting program. It's a Division I caliber program. The strength coach was at the University of Tennessee before he came to Union. "I like how the school has a lot of student-athletes and it's a close-knit community." Collier is appreciative of the support he received from his parents. "I would like to say thanks to my mom and dad because they always pushed me to do great things and always supported me." Coach Jason Spencer thinks Collier will be a good college player. "He will be successful because he is a hard worker and he's a coachable and likeable young man," Spencer said. "He's a coach's player. He'll play wherever they want him to whether it's o-line or d-line. With his great academic record he'll be a great asset to Union College and their football team."

"We did a really good job at the free throw line," Welch said. "They hit their free throws well, too, but we got to the line a lot more and that proved decisive. Austin had a big game with 24 points and he was 12-15 from the line."

According to Welch the Cats also got key contributions by several other players.

"Chase Howard had a good game finding people in the seams of their zone defense," Welch said. "Robbie Cruse had a big night on the boards. He had several crucial rebounds and loose balls. Brad West, Landon New and Dakota Estes did a good job on their guards who were much taller. They were able to get out on them and bother them on their shots. They were able to penetrate and dish and we did a better job of stopping the drive and closing out on their shooters."

Estes added 10 points for the Cats while New and Howard had seven each. The Wildcats improved to 17-7 with the win while Spencer County fell to 7-15.

Bullitt Central 69 HCHS 62

The Wildcats played

host to the Cougars on Feb. 5 and as mentioned fell behind early. After a cold start by both teams the Cougars heated up and led 9-3 with 2:23 left in the opening period. A Young 3-pointer and two free throws by New cut the lead to 9-8 before the Cougars closed out the period with a 3-pointer and a three-point play to lead 15-8.

The Wildcats continued to struggle offensively against the Cougars who mixed man-to-man with 2-3 zone defense. Henry County found it tough to get the ball inside and their outside jumpers weren't falling. Bullitt Central outscored the Cats 17-8 in the second quarter to lead 32-16 at halftime.

Things looked like they might improve for the Cats to start the second half. Estes got a steal and layup to open the scoring and then Young scored inside with 6:43 to play to make it 32-20.

Bullitt Central then went on an 11-2 run to stretch the lead to 21 points and the Cats looked like they might get blown out of the gym. But the Cats went on a 15-2 run through the last 3:23 of the period to cut the lead to 45-37. Two 3-pointers from West and one from Howard fueled the late rally after the Cats had been cold from behind the arc for the first 21 minutes of the game.

The break seemed to restore the Cougars' composure as the teams played evenly for the first three minutes of the final period before Bullitt Central scored on a three-point play to go up by 11 with 4:37 left.

Henry County answered with a 6-0 run to cut to five with 3:50 left. But Bullitt Central answered with a 7-2 run to get the lead back to double digits with 2:02 left and it looked like the Cats would fall short in their comeback bid.

But the Cats had one more run left in them. Young scored inside with 1:47 left and was fouled. He converted the free throw to make it an eight-point game. After Bullitt Central hit two free throws, Howard hit a 13-footer. The Cougars then converted one of two free throws before Young got a steal and was fouled while scoring for another three-point play to cut it to six with 47 seconds left.

After the Cougars converted one of two free throws again Howard hit a 3-pointer to cut the lead to four points with 41 seconds to go.

On Bullitt Central's next possession they missed an inside attempt and Henry County came away with a rebound. Howard was fouled driving to the basket and hit one of two free throws to pull the Cats within three with 25 seconds left.

Henry County was forced into fouling on the next possession and the Cougars knocked down both free throws to extend the lead to five. The Cats could not get another basket and the Cougars added two more free throws to make the final margin seven points.

"We really dug a big hole in the first half," Welch said. "Bullitt Central is a good, senior-laden team. They are 15-5 for a reason. We fought hard to get back in it but ran out of time."

WARRIORS

Demons come back to outscore the Warriors 15-7 to take a one point lead into the locker room.

In the second half the game stayed close throughout with Williamstown building a five-point lead late. The Warriors got back within one point but could never get over the hump. The Warriors final chance came with about 15 seconds to go. They forced a turnover and after a timeout, set up a play to Dixie a look. But Dixie was called for carrying the ball with 4.8 seconds to go and the Warriors were forced into fouling. The Demons hit the free throws to set the final margin at three.

Nethery felt the game should never have come down to trying to get a final shot for the win. "We had so many mistakes when we could have gone up in the game. It happened all night. It was disappointing to say the least."

The loss left Eminence with a 3-17 record while Williamstown improved to 9-15.

Gallatin Co. 70 EHS 61

The Eminence Warriors hosted the Gallatin County Wildcats on Feb. 3 for their second meeting of the year. The Wildcats won the first meeting in Warsaw by a score of 70-61. The Wildcats won the second round by a similar score of 75-64 but not without a scare from their hosts.

Gallatin jumped out on an 11-3 lead and led 13-7 with 1:45 left in the first period. After a long dry spell for both teams, Wells cut the margin to four with a reverse layup with 40 seconds left.

Gallatin answered with a 3-pointer with 22 seconds to go to lead by seven before Shelby Armstrong scored on a free throw at 12 seconds.

The Warriors got the ball back on a turnover and Armstrong hit a rebound basket at the buzzer to make it 16-12 going into the second period.

The Wildcats opened the second period with a 9-2 run to go up by 11 at 25-14 with 4:52 left in the half.

The Warriors answered with a put back by Jake McKinley that started a 7-0 run to bring Eminence back within four points at 25-21.

With 56 seconds to go Gallatin scored on a layup to stretch the lead back out to nine points before Trevor Payton hit a runner in the lane with 32 seconds to go. Gallatin got the final basket of the half on a runner with seven seconds to go to make it 36-27 going into the locker room.

Armstrong opened the scoring in the second half with a layup but Gallatin County scored the next six points to take a 13-point lead just two minutes into the second half.

The Warriors again showed resolve as they fought their way back into the game. McKinley's 3-pointer with 1:26 left in the period pulled the Warriors within six points at 49-43.

The Wildcats immediately answered with a 3-pointer of their own just 12 seconds later to take some wind out of the Warriors' sails. Two free throws by the Wildcats extended the lead back out to 11 with 55 seconds left in the third period.

McKinley hit another 3-pointer at 40 seconds and the Warriors got a stop on the Wildcats' next possession, giving them a chance to cut further into the deficit just before the end of the period. It was not to be for the Warriors as Gallatin got a steal and layup at the buzzer to go into the final period leading 56-46.

The Wildcats extended the lead to sixteen points with 4:43 left in the fourth period. The Warriors continued to battle but never got closer than the final 11-point margin.

"The game comes down to controlling the ball in the right spots," Coach Chris Nethery said. "We had turnovers at crucial moments. We had a chance to shoot layups against their press and just didn't execute."

Nethery got good contributions from his bench with Mason Wells and Jake McKinley getting a combined 19 points in the game.

"I thought Jake played well," Nethery said. "It wasn't just hitting the 3-pointers. He also played good defense. Mason gave us a lift with six points and good defense too."

Nethery was most pleased with a couple of veteran starters who were under the weather for the game.

"Mitchell Golden and Shelby Armstrong were both sick," Nethery said. "Mitchell had a stomach bug that landed him in the hospital for dehydration the day before and he came out and gave all he had. Shelby was fighting bronchitis and he gave us what he could. I was proud of them for their effort under the circumstances."

Warriors slay Wyverns

Fall to Demons, Wildcats

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

The Eminence Warriors hosted the St. Francis Wyverns on Thursday night and came away with a 21-point win.

The Warriors got out to a four-point lead at 17-13 in the first quarter and maintained it going into the locker room at halftime.

"In the first half we missed a lot of layups," Coach Chris Nethery said. "We should have been up by more."

The Warriors shot better in the second half and made some defensive adjustments that paid off as they pulled away from the Wyverns.

"Their big kids presented us with some problems in the first half," Nethery said. "But we made some adjustments at halftime and forced a lot of turnovers when they tried lobbing the ball into the post. Offensively, we got a lot of looks from the high post against their 1-3-1 zone and found people underneath for layups."

The Warriors increased their lead to 10 points after three quarters.

In the final period the Warriors continued to click and sailed away to a relatively easy victory.

"We did a good job of being patient against their zone which actually helped us extend the lead," Nethery said. "Jalen Dixie had a good effort in the first half. He only missed a couple of shots and he did a good job of distributing the ball. He found the open man a lot."

"Overall, it was a good team effort," Nethery continued. "Everybody played extremely hard. We didn't shoot very well but everybody found a way to contribute. Mason Wells had another good game off the bench with seven rebounds."

Williamstown 58 EHS 55

The Warriors hosted the Demons on Friday night and lost a game that Nethery feels the Warriors gave away.

"We made too many mistakes in crucial situation," Nethery said. "We had fast breaks where we were two on one or three on one and threw the ball away. We had steals or rebounds that we lost the ball back. We had so many good chances that we did not capitalize on."

The Warriors got off to a good start. They scored the first five points of the game on a 15-foot jumper by Mitchell Golden, who finished with 12 points and 16 rebounds, and a three-point play by Dixie who had 27 points and 16 rebounds.

Williamstown fought back to within one point at 9-8 with 2:26 left in the quarter before the Warriors finished the quarter on a 6-0 run to lead 15-8 going into the second period. Dixie had all six points in the run.

The Henry County Wildcats visited Spencer County Friday night and found themselves in a familiar position. After one quarter of play the Wildcats trailed the Bears 17-9.

Just two nights earlier the Cats trailed by seven points to Bullitt Central before falling behind by as much as 21 points in the game. In that game the Cats made a furious rally to pull within three points, but it was too little too late and the Cats lost by seven.

"We knew we would have trouble going in to their gym," Coach Enoch Welch. "It is a really hostile environment. Their fans are loud and really support their team. Spencer County has really improved as the season has gone along."

The script for the Bears game was different after the slow start. The Wildcats rallied in the second quarter to outscore the Bears 19-14 and trail by just three points at halftime.

The Cats rode the momentum of the second quarter through the third period, outscoring Spencer County 14-5 to take a six-point lead into the final period. The Cats got good free throw shooting and strong inside play from Austin Young to maintain that lead the rest of the way.

Beat Wyverns 31-27; Fall to Carroll

BY GREG WOODS
sports@hclocal.com

It has been a long time coming but the Eminence Warriors girls' basketball team finally got a home-court victory on Thursday night against the St. Francis Wyverns by a score of 31-27. The young Warriors only previous win was against Brown in the Beth Haven Holiday Classic.

"They definitely needed a win to get them going," Coach Zach Adair said. "Especially, the middle school girls who didn't have a win. It was good for them to get a win on their home court."

The Wyverns struck first with an inside basket just 38 seconds into the game. Eminence came back with a 3-pointer by Madison Dockter and a 15-foot jumper by Lyndsay Craigmyle to take a 5-2 lead with 4:12 left in the opening period.

St. Francis closed the period on a 6-0 run to lead 8-5 going into the second period.

Taviana West pulled the Warriors to within one point to open the second period on a jump shot from 15 feet. The Wyverns scored the next four points to go up 12-7 with 2:47 to play before halftime.

Dockter scored the next four points on a put back and a steal and layup to make it 12-11. After St. Francis converted one of two free throws, Jasmine Adams scored inside with 49 seconds left to tie the score. Craigmyle followed with a rebound basket at 18 seconds to give the Warriors their first lead since midway through the first period.

The Warriors came out of the locker room and had perhaps their best period of the year, outscoring St. Francis 8-2 to take a 23-15 lead into the final period. Craigmyle, who finished with eight points, had four points in the quarter and Dockter, who led the team with 13 points, had three points.

"I think the experience of leading against Beth Haven and then coming out satisfied and losing it helped us in this game," Adair said. "This time we went into the locker room with a lead and came back out and actually extended it."

The Warriors extended the lead to 11 points to start the final period when Dockter scored on a three-point play just six seconds in. But from there the Wyverns battled back while the young Warriors coped with trying to protect a lead for the first time this year. # Lady Cats fall to Lady Wildcats 56-41

sports@hclocal.com

The Henry County Lady Cats hosted the Gallatin County Lady Wildcats on Friday night just eight days after losing in Warsaw by 22 points. In that game the Lady Cats managed to stay close for a while before succumbing to Gallatin County's pressure defense and deadly shooting. This time the Lady Cats showed improvement by hanging tough into the third period before a spate of turnovers allowed Gallatin to pull away for a tough, but comfortable, 56-41 win.

Gallatin County came out hot and jumped out to leads of 7-0 and 9-2 before the Lady Cats began to get a foothold in the game. Gallatin ended the period up nine points at 13-4.

Coach Todd Gilley was not disappointed with his team's play in the first period. He saw signs of things to come.

"We were very focused on the process," Gilley said. "Our body language didn't change when we got down."

The Lady Cats turned the tables on Gallatin in the second quarter, outscoring them 15-12 to make it a six point game heading into the locker room.

Henry County started strong in the third period and pulled within 25-22 early. That is when turnovers started to hurt the Cats.
